

CORRESPONDENCE

South Trego

Binding wheat was started last Monday.

Christ Rohn called on Jas. Benisch Thursday morning.

Herman Heitman and Mrs. David Dienes are also sporting new binders.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lohman spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harm Schneider.

Ed Sietz of Gorham came down last Saturday and took in the Fourth celebration at A. R. McKinley's.

There is a new photo gallery installed in this burg, which is run by a certain young lady. Pictures of all kinds made to order on short notice.

Mesdames A. R. McKinley, Silas McKune, Pete Schneider, Julius Sietz, and Geo. Lohman assisted Mrs. Jas. Benisch in harvest Wednesday afternoon.

Last Sunday a large number of relatives and friends were invited to attend the celebration of the fourth at the A. R. McKinley place. A large dinner was prepared by Mrs. McKinley after which ice cream and cake was served. Relatives and friends enjoyed the feast very much and hoped the Fourth would be here again soon.

Big Creek

Mrs. T. C. Feezor has recovered sufficiently to be able to be up and around.

Most of the farmers west and south of Ellis are through harvesting for this year. They finished Saturday.

Captain Mathew Cross of the United States army, is in Ellis on a leave of absence to visit with relatives before going to Panama.

A very heavy rain and hail fell in this vicinity last Saturday evening, which cleaned up the wheat, oats, barley and other crops.

Everett Beach of Ellis county, has leased his farm in that county to Mr. Keagy of Ellis, and purchased the A. P. Teeters farm in Trego county, which he will soon occupy.

Thos. Hays, manager of the Golden Belt co-operative business in Ellis, sprung a surprise on his friends Tuesday of last week by going to Hays and getting married.

The Sower sale on Tuesday of last week netted a fine sum for Billy, and the Teeters sale Thursday was well attended and property sold very well and netted a very nice sum for Mr. Teeters.

The celebration in Ellis last Monday drew a large crowd. The parade was very good, in fact was just splendid. The afternoon was devoted to games and races. Mr. Hull, who was in a motorcycle race, got a severe fall and was injured pretty badly, but we understand not seriously.

Voda

Fourth of July passed off quietly.

J. Griffith spent several days in St. Peter on business.

Ralph Kristof delivered hogs to Wa-Keeney, Saturday.

Stanley Austin is in Wilson taking in the harvest there.

Several from here took in the picnic on the Saline Sunday.

A. Oldham purchased a quarter section of land of A. D. Parson's.

All the farmers have their headers headed towards the fields.

Mesdames R. Kristof and L. P. Davis spent Wednesday with Mrs. R. Owens.

Mrs. Wm. Cox was the guest of Mrs. L. P. Davis the later part of the week.

Frank Vandewater spent the Fourth in Denver, returning home Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Griffith and family are pleasantly domiciled in the house vacated by Wm. Cox.

Mr. McVey is the new blacksmith at Voda. He is a stranger in this neighborhood but comes well recommended, so don't forget to call on him when in need of anything in his line of business.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Owens, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Davis, Missess Josephine and Bessie Khrut and Messrs. Chas. Kristof, Lawrence Khrut and Gerhard Musman spent Sunday at Ralph Kristof's.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Schwanbeck entertained at dinner Sunday the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. H. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spena, Mr. and Mrs. G. Crocker and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ehrichs.

Willcox

Tom Kite began to cut wheat Monday.

Theodore Whistler left for the east for harvest.

We have had a half day of dry weather the past week.

Don, Floyd and Urma Lynn spent the Fourth at Utica.

All crops look well around Willcox, no hail to speak of.

Clark Stetler is back from Texas looking after his wheat crop.

Sunday school every Sunday at two-thirty. Everyone welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lyons spent Saturday night at John Shribers.

Mr. and Mrs. Orio Lyons called on Will Stowe and family Tuesday.

The Ness City road is in bad shape and threats to sue the county are numerous.

Edd Purcell bought a work team last week and is now contemplating on working it.

John Olsen mowed the weeds about his place so as not to lose the children or the chickens.

The river boys had a big time one night the past week, charivaring the bride and groom at the home of John Shriber, sr.

Will Scott of Ransom is overseeing the construction of the new barn for K. W. Rogers. Well boys, I suppose it will need to be a surprise party as K. W. don't dance.

A number of tourists have passed through here on their way to the races at Dodge City, but not so many as last year. A good many got in the ruts and had to be helped out.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Shriber are the proud parents of a fine new boy, just arrived in time for harvest. Johnnie was a Willcox resident not long ago but has moved over the county line.

One of our most prominent citizens took a hike to Ness City, Wednesday, taking along his sweetheart, Miss Minnie Miller. They returned as Mr. and Mrs. Otto Shriber. As Leo and his lady friend were along we can't quite understand why they did not have the knot tied also.

"I Don't Feel Good"

That is what a lot of people tell us. Usually their bowels only need cleansing. Rexall Orderlies will do the trick and make you feel fine. We know this positively. Take one tonight. Sold only by us, 10 cents. W. W. Gibson.

Have Faith in Laughter. It is an excellent thing to believe in the religion of laughter. And the strictest religionists in the world devoutly believe in laughter. The pilgrims at Mecca consider it such an essential part of their devotion that they call upon the Prophet to deliver them from sad faces.

Good Word for Rabelais. "Ah!" cried Rabelais, the promoter of coarse laughter, proudly viewing the inebriated friends around his deathbed, "if I were to die ten times over I should never make you cry half so much as I have made you laugh." So you see old Rabelais, though you may question the taste of his celebrated laugh treatment, was some doctor.

State of Kansas, Trego County, ss.
I, F. B. Acre, treasurer of Trego county, Kansas, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

F. B. ACRE
County Treasurer.

I hereby certify that the foregoing statement was subscribed and sworn to before me, and in my presence, by the above named this 1st day of July, 1915.

C. H. BENSON
County Clerk Trego County.

Educational Limitations.

A small boy asked his father the meaning of equinox, and received this answer: "What in the world do you go to school for? Don't you study mythology? An equinox is a mythical animal, half horse, half ox. The name is derived from the Latin 'equine,' horse and 'ox.' Dear me, they teach you absolutely nothing that is useful nowadays!"—Aitchison Globe.

"Landlady."

The distinction which the possession of land used to give is still exemplified in the titles of "landlord" and "landlady." Persons are amused at the colored washwoman, for instance, who insists on the term "lady." But let the same woman run a rooming house, of whatever description, and she is not a "landwoman," but a "landlady."

Folly of Pessimism.

Pessimists lack the muscular reservoirs which spell confidence and the springs of hidden power. It behooves every gloomy, morose, downhearted, downtrodden, blue, sensitive, blushing, bashful, near or full pessimist to sail right in and educate his and her muscles to some degree of proficiency and efficiency.

Carnot and Wolfe Tone.

Carnot, at the time he was visited by Wolfe Tone, the Irish patriot, was one of the five "directors" who governed the French republic. Soon after the abortive "Invasion of England" he was proscribed and fled to Germany, but returned, and later on became minister of war, which office he held but a short time on account of his antagonism to Napoleon.

BANQUETS THAT ARE FAMOUS

Old Romans Would Send to the Ends of the Earth for Delicacies That Appealed to Them.

At the famous banquet of Trimalchio which, it should be remembered, was not merely a banquet, but a burlesque, and was given by a multi-millionaire, and was should call him today, the guests would have served the most of men for a dinner. A donkey of Corinthian bronze held two baskets of olives, white on one side, black on the other. Then there were dormice covered with honey and poppy seed, hot sausage on a silver grill and beneath them damsons and pomegranate seeds. But a Roman dined with Trimalchio as rarely as with Lucullus, and the freedman's fancy was separate and his own.

After the guests came the regular courses (fercula they are called), which might be three, or even seven, in the houses of epicures. The satirists and historians, as we know, condemn the extravagance, which vastly increased under the empire, and which bade the wealthy Romans send for their priceless delicacies to the ends of the earth. Satire had no more effect than sumptuary laws, and the banquets of the rich patricians and wealthy freedmen are legendary. First came the fish, for poor as for rich a necessity of the dinner. Sea barbel and the turbot of Ravenna were the favorites, and the haddock was not disdained.

FROM THE GATES OF DEATH

Aged Collector Threw Off Infirmities at Sight of Object He Desired to Possess.

What the passion for collecting is no one except perhaps the born collector can really know. Sir Martin Conway, in "The Sport of Collecting," writes:

"I once knew an aged collector who was suffering all the ills that nature accumulates on the last years of some nonagenarians.

"His sight was feeble; he was deaf; he was often racked with pain. It seemed evident that his end was at hand. His days and nights had to be spent in an armchair, and each gasping breath seemed likely to be his last.

"To him entered a dealer of his acquaintance with a splendid Kang Hsi Famille verte vase, which the old man had long wished to possess. The sight of it revived his forces; his breathing cleared; he sat erect in his chair, and presently, in the excitement of the bargaining, was upon his feet striding about the room.

"The struggle and the victory revived him, and he lived on for several years before death finally won him and the British museum entered upon its inheritance."

Why Are Fruits Colored?

The attractive and appetizing outward appearance of most fruits is generally explained by supposing that its function is to attract animals, which eat the fleshy portion and carry the seed away from the parent plant, thus aiding the distribution of the species. The red cheeks of a peach are so enticing that this explanation probably finds acceptance. But why that brilliant red color where the flesh meets the kernel? The bird that pecks at the flesh of the fruit does not strike this colored layer until the work is practically accomplished.

Certain trees that furnish the so-called dye woods deposit pigment by the hundredweight within their stems. The wood or indigo plant and several others contain a substance known as "indican," which is normally colorless, but is transformed by a fermentation and oxidation process into deep blue indigo. This case is particularly puzzling, since the color of the dye stuff is not even developed in the living plant.

Leopard Traps.

The following is the usual method of making an Indian leopard trap: A live goat or kid is confined in the back of the trap, but protected on the inside by strong bars. The heavy trapdoor is kept raised a couple of feet off the ground by a lever resting on a crossbar above, while the lower end of the lever is attached by a rope to a rod or stick stuck into a log or plank raised off the ground inside the trap, just in front of the grating protecting the decoy, the bleating of which attracts the leopard. The latter in attempting to get at its prey treads on the log or plank before mentioned, which in its fall releases the lever and lets the heavy door fall into position. The captured leopard is then caged, shot or speared.—Wide World Magazine.

Parson Holler Discourses on Faith.

"Have faith, bruddren and sistahs!" sonorously said good old Parson Holler, during a recent sermon. "Have faith, but don't be foolish about it! De Lawd will back yo' up plumb to de limit if yo' uses judgment, but he ain't mixin' up 'a no podnership wid fools. Be honest and decent and d'strictious, and have faith, an' yo' will win out, some fawty, some sixty and some an hundred fold. But if yo' jump out's a fourth story window wid one o' dem new thought books open in yo' hand and 'speak to float straight up like o' hot-air balloon, all de faith in goddly-mighty's world won't save yo' f'm bumpin' de life out'n y'n' personality on de ground. Have faith, muh friends, but don' act de fool!"—Kansas City Star.
